Culture shock is a term used to describe the process a person experiences when living outside his or her culture for a long period of time. Culture shock is a reality to many international students. When moving to a new culture, international students must deal with a language that may be unfamiliar, incomprehensible customs and values, and cultural expectations the students may not be fully aware of. As a result, the students may go through emotional extremes ranging from excitement with the new culture to depression. I, like most foreign students, had to face the harsh reality of culture shock as I pursued my college career. But it wasn't an easy process. There's no magic pill or vaccine. To be successful, international students should become familiar with the process of culture shock, a process that became my way of feeling at ease with French culture.

Passage

The advantages or positive points of e-readers certainly seem to be more than the disadvantages. They are light and mobile devices that can be taken anywhere. Taking one gadget on holiday allows us to take hundreds of novels with us without having to pay for extra luggage on the plane.

The electronic nature of e-readers gives us so much more than a print copy of a book can do. It lets us read in the dark (handy in case of a power cut). We can look up unfamiliar words in the in-built dictionary with just one click, we can make notes, and we never forget what page we were on: the e-reader remembers that for us. If our eyesight declines, we can make the letters bigger. We can re-read Jane Eyre as often as we like and the book will never look any worse for it. And even if our taste in books is unusual, nobody need know: others can't see what we are reading. Not only that, most e-books are cheaper than their print versions, and many older books can be downloaded for free.

So why have only one in three of us read an e-book? The answer must be that there is something special about the look, the feel, and maybe even the smell of printed books. 'Real' books are objects that have a past and their physical presence surrounds us with happy memories.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

In the early 1990s, many villages turned to solar power in parts of Africa where life was hard because of the absence of electricity. Perhaps the greatest project of this nature, and one that is often mentioned, is a Zimbabwean project supported by UNDP through the Global Environment Facility (GEF). The plan, jointly funded by GEF ($7m) and Zimbabwe ($200,000), made use of some 9,000 solar power systems throughout the country to improve living standards, but also to decrease land degradation and pollution.

Shamva, 70 kilometers from Zimbabwe's capital, Harare, is now one of the best solar-village models in the country. Fifty-two commercial farming families share systems; there is one system for every two houses. Each family has two lamps and a connection for a radio or small television set. The new lighting systems have improved the quality of life for the community. They have increased study hours for schoolchildren, reduced rural-to-urban migration in the area, and upgraded health standards by electrifying a local health center.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

You may think that people are capable of living in a wide range of environments, from the hot deserts of Africa and the Middle East to the freezing cold of Siberia or Northern Canada. Being an intelligent species, we worked out how to use fire to keep us warm in cold conditions and, considerably later, air conditioning to keep us cool in hot climates. But there is a wide variety of organisms capable of living in environments in which no human could survive – the extremophiles.

Take, for example, Spinoloricus cinzia, a tiny creature, about a millimeter long and looking a little like a jellyfish. This recently discovered animal is particularly interesting, as it appears to be capable of living without oxygen and is thus a multi-cellular anaerobe. The cells of most organisms contain mitochondria, which use oxygen to generate energy, whereas the cells of Spinoloricus cinzia do not contain mitochondria. Most anaerobes so far discovered are microbes and use a form of fermentation to gain energy. Some anaerobes will actually die in the presence of oxygen.

- 1) They are all discovered and known to us.
 - 2) They can live in a wide range of environments.
 - 3) They have cells all of which have no mitochondria.
 - 4) They are capable of surviving in environments empty of oxygen.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

Language is one of the important abilities of humans which makes humans stand out from animals, so language loss raises serious questions about our history, our humanity and perhaps about our future, too. Any study of the history of language shows that languages, like humans, develop over time. According to some estimates, around 7,000 languages are still spoken in the world. This number is a sign of the diversity and range of human experience in all around the world. But not all those languages are equally healthy. In fact, while some languages are healthy and powerful, other are in the process of dying and disappearing. In fact, research shows that languages are dying out very fast. Some believe that by 2100, most of these languages, perhaps as many as 90% of them, will no longer exist in the spoken medium. If this were plant life, or whales and dolphins, many people would be worried and ask something to be done to stop this unlucky process. Yet, surprisingly, there seems to be little interest in this terrible event. What is lost when a language ceases to exist?

- 63 What is the subject of the passage?
- 1) Language loss
 - 2) How languages die out
 - 3) Comparison of modern and old languages
 - 4) The main difference between humans and animals
- 64 Why does the author make a comparison between languages and humans in the second sentence, "Any study of the history of language -----"?
- 1) Because languages are spoken by humans
 - 2) Because both languages and humans have histories
 - 3) Because both languages and humans do not stay the same in the course of time
 - 4) Because when languages are lost, humans lose whatever knowledge and experience they have collected through them
- 65 What does the phrase "these languages" refers to?
- 1) Healthy and powerful languages
 - 2) The languages that are dying out very fast
 - 3) Those languages that manage to survive by 2100

- 66 The passage most probably continues with a discussion of -----
- 1) the reasons why languages die

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

It is said that most people have no more than 30 friends at any given time, and 400 over the whole of their lives. However, on social networking sites, most users have about 150 friends. If these numbers are correct, then friendship means different things in different situations.

One of the reasons people have more online friends than real friends at any particular point in time is that online friendships do not require much time and energy: it is easy to make Internet friends and keep them forever. Another possibility is that it is difficult to say "no" when somebody asks us to be their friend online, even if we feel we don't really know them. The fact that they ask us suggests that they do consider us a friend, which is a nice feeling. Alternatively, they may be "collectors" of online friends and simply want to use us to get a higher number of friends and appear to be popular.

Online friendships are quite easy, but in the real world things are much more difficult. There are no rules about friendship. There are no guidelines about how to make friends, how to keep friendships going, and how to finish friendships is we want to move on. People also have very different opinions about friendship: some people would die for their friends and value them more than family. Others feel that friends are temporary, only there to help each other until they are no longer needed. If people with such different views become friends, this can lead to problems.

کنکور سراسری زبان داخل ۱۳۹۸

75 It can be understood from the passage that -----

- 1) people turn to the Internet to make friends because they no longer value friendships
- 2) the situation in which people make friends influences the actual nature of their friendship
- 3) online friendships last longer than real friendships that were a mark of past relationships
- 4) the Internet has made people so close that people pay more attention to their friends than to their family members

76 Which of the following best describes the function of paragraph 2 in relation to paragraph 1?

- 1) Paragraph 2 explains why the claim made in paragraph 1 is true.
- 2) Paragraph 2 brings in some reasons to question the position taken in paragraph 1.
- 3) Paragraph 2 discusses the effect of the change in friendship explained in paragraph 1.
- 4) Paragraph 2 expands one of the reasons mentioned in paragraph 1 about why people nowadays have more friends.

77 What does paragraph 3 mainly discuss?

- 1) Why making friends online is not difficult
- 2) People's opinions about the role of friends in their lives
- 3) What makes making friendships offline in the real world harder
- 4) The reasons why it is necessary to change the way people make friends online

78 The word "this" in paragraph 3 refers to -----

- 1) the link between people becoming weak
- 2) trying to find as many friends as possible
- 3) having different views towards friendship
- 4) people with different views becoming friends

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

At the start of every new year, many of us promise ourselves that a certain number of times a week we will go to the gym, go jogging, attend an exercise class, etc. But many of us have a hard time including exercise in our lives, or we start off well and then stop.

The key could be to find the right type of exercise for you. After all, if we end up doing something we enjoy and can see the positive effects of, we are more likely to do it for longer than a few weeks. Studies suggest that six weeks are all it takes to form a habit, so once we have managed to continue for that length of time, chances are that exercise has become a routine part of our lives that we do not question. So what exercise is right for you?

First of all, you need to find out what your goal is. Are you mainly interested in destressing or in getting healthier? If your important goal is relaxation, then ask yourself if you want to do this energetically, in which case a type of exercise based on boxing may, for example, be right for you. If you have a calmer style, then you could choose some exercise you can do alone, such as walking, doing some gardening, or selecting a brisk daily walk around the block. If you get more interested in working with others, then you could join a tennis, fitness or t'ai chi class, all designed to stretch and strengthen your muscles and with the added benefit of calming the mind.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

All countries that send objects into space find themselves face to face with a serious problem: space junk. The "junk" includes parts of rockets, unwanted remaining parts from launches, dead satellites, and other manufactured items that simply stay there in space with no use at all. There may well be half a million pieces of dangerous waste in orbit. As you might expect, countries around the world are worried. Many are working on solutions to destroy the detritus.

Japan's space agency has built an electromagnetic tether. This giant steel and aluminum net, nearly half a mile wide, would orbit in space and attract metallic pieces as it travels. Once full of waste, the net would fall back into the Earth's atmosphere. The gathered pieces would burn upon re-entry. If this net idea works, Japan plans to build a much larger one.

A Swiss company proposes a different answer. It is developing a spacecraft that would act as a huge device to collect harmful debris. Like the Japanese net, the Swiss device would fall back into Earth's atmosphere, destroying its contents in the process.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

Some people are shy, which means they feel uncomfortable in the presence of others. If you suffer from shyness, you are not alone, for there are many people having the same problem. According to recent research, close to 50 percent of the general population report that they currently experience some degree of shyness in their lives. In addition, close to 80 percent of people report having felt shy at some point of their lives. As shyness is so widespread in the world, it is not surprising that social scientists are learning more about its causes. They have found that shyness in an individual can result from both biological and environmental factors. Recent research shows that some people are genetically predisposed to shyness. In other words, some people say that some people are born shy. Researchers say that between 5 and 20 percent of newborn babies show signs of shyness: they are quieter and more watchful. Researchers have identified physiological differences between sociable and shy babies that show up as early as two months. In one study, two-month-olds who were later identified as shy children reacted with signs of stress when they were shown moving mobiles and tape recordings of human voices: increased heart rates, jerky movements of arms and legs, and excessive crying. Further evidence of the genetic basis of shyness is the fact that parents and grandparents of shy children more often say that they were shy as children than parents and grandparents of non-shy children.

99 Social scientists have tried to find out about the causes of shyness because -----

- 1) it is a problem many people suffer from
- 2) it surely has a mental but not a physical origin
- 3) previously suggested ways to control it did not work
- 4) some people who report that they are shy may not really be shy

100 It can be concluded from paragraph 2 that if a person's parents and grandparents are shy, He -----

- 1) would turn out to be less sociable than they were
- 2) needs to see a medical doctor immediately
- 3) has had a difficult childhood
- 4) is likely to be shy too

101 The word "they" in paragraph 2 refers to -----

- 1) signs of stress
- 2) two-month-olds
- 3) shy children in general
- 4) mobiles and tape recordings of human voices

102 Which of the following statements is TRUE, according to paragraph 2?

- 1) No one is born shy.
- 2) There are physiological differences between shy and sociable babies.
- 3) Shy people are typically quieter but less careful than those who are not shy.
- 4) Heart rates, jerky movements of arms and legs, and excessive crying are some physiological causes of shyness.

103 Then there is the view that caring about the environment is not necessary because this is something that will ----- itself, which is not true.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

It is said that about 40 per cent of the world's population use social media, and many of these billions of social media users look up to influencers to help them decide what to buy and what trends to follow. So what is an influencer and how do we become one?

An influencer is a person who can influence the decisions of their followers because of their relationship with their audience and their knowledge in a particular area, e.g. fashion, travel or technology. Influencers often have a large following of people who pay close attention to their views. They have the power to make people buy things, and influencers are now seen by many companies as a direct way to customers' hearts. Brands are now asking powerful influencers to market their products. With some influencers asking for $25,000 for one social media post, it is no surprise that more and more people are interested in becoming influencers too. If you are one of them, then here are five tips on how to do it.

First, choose your niche. What is the area that you know most about? What do you feel most excited talking about? Find the specific area that you're most interested in and develop it. Next, choose your medium and write an interesting bio. Most influencers these days are bloggers and micro-bloggers. Decide which medium-such as your own online blog, Instagram or Snapchat-is the best way to connect with your followers and chat about your niche area. When you have done that, write an attention-grabbing bio that describes you and your specialty area in an interesting and unique way. Make sure that people who read your bio will want to follow you.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

The cultural context can also influence life expectancy for men and women. (Life expectancy is the expected length of a person's life.) For example, women generally smoke cigarettes less than men, which has been proven to cause many health problems and to shorten lives.

Another factor that has influenced the lives of women is the lack of stress. Stress is well known to shorten lives. Until recently, women who worked were usually in less responsible, less stressful positions. At home, housework tends to keep women in better physical condition than men. This generally better physical condition is yet another factor in women's longer lives.

These cultural factors have played an important part for the women who are now getting old. But the social habits of women are changing. Young women are smoking more than women used to. More women are working now and holding more responsible positions. These changes may mean that the cultural context will no longer help women live healthier lives. However, women will continue to live longer than men because of certain other factors.

کٲٲکور سراسری ریاضی و فیزیک داخل ۱۳۹۸

127 The passage would most probably continue with a discussion of -----.

- 1) why women are no longer willing to stay home and do housework
- 2) the reasons behind the change in different countries' culture around the world
- 3) factors other than cultural factors in relation to women's living longer than men
- 4) how a healthy lifestyle is important for both men and women in today's ever - changing world

128 It can be understood from the passage that the author considers cigarette smoking to -----.

- 1) become more common among women than it is now among men
- 2) have a relationship with the amount of stress in people's lives
- 3) be more harmful to women than to men
- 4) be a culture-related habit

129 It can be understood from the passage that men can improve their physical condition by ----
-----.

- 1) doing housework
- 2) giving their jobs to women
- 3) working jobs with more responsibility
- 4) taking better care of their health problems

130 Which of the following statements is TRUE, according to the passage?

- 1) Women in the past did not smoke because it was considered a socially negative habit.
- 2) The difference in life expectancy between men and women is very likely to become smaller.
- 3) Women's health problems and those of men are similar in terms of both their causes and effects.
- 4) If women realize their health problems are because of their new social roles, they would renew their past habits.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

Both men and women are living longer these days in the industrialized countries. However, women, on the average, live longer. In general, they can expect to live six or seven years more than men. The reasons for this are both biological and cultural.

One important biological factor that helps women live longer is the difference in hormones between men and women. Hormones are chemicals which are produced by the body to control various body functions. Between the ages of about 12 and 50, women produce hormones that are involved in fertility. These hormones also have a positive effect on the heart and the blood flow. In fact, women are less likely to have high blood pressure or to die from heart attacks.

The female hormones also protect the body in another way. They help the body to defend itself against some kinds of illnesses. This means that women generally get sick less often and less seriously than men. The common cold is a good example: women, on average, get fewer colds than men.

Women are also helped by their female genes. Scientists are still not exactly sure how genes influence aging, but they believe that they do. Some think that a woman's body cells age more slowly than a man's. Others think that a man's body cells age more quickly. Recent research seems to support both of these possibilities.

- 2) To compare and contrast two different findings
- 3) To follow the historical line of a new development

132 How many biological factors does the passage mention as having an effect on women's living longer than men?

- 1) One
- 2) Two
- 3) Three
- 4) Four

133 What is the purpose of the example mentioned in paragraph 3?

- 1) To emphasize the role of illnesses in reducing people's hope of living long
